INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY RIGHTS COMMITTEE

PREAMBLE

An important factor in giving a business a competitive edge is intellectual property. More valuable than an organization's concrete assets are its intangible assets, which include knowledge, innovations, and well-designed goods. As a result, the Arignar Anna College (Arts & Science) Intellectual Property Rights Policy Document (henceforth referred to as the Institute) aims to advise faculty, research scholars, and students on the Institute's policies and procedures regarding intellectual property rights (IPR) and responsibilities, including the nature of intellectual property (IP), its ownership, technology transfer, exploitation, and confidentiality requirements. This document's policy is likely to fulfil the Institute's goal to fostering academic choice and offering a supportive environment for research and growth.

PURPOSE

The Institute has developed this policy to manage intellectual property rights in order to:

- Facilitate, promote, and protect scientific inquiry and research involved in R&D;
- Provide a research environment that leads to the development of intellectual property;
- Create procedural rules and an IPR management policy;
- Establish guidelines for the Institute's do’s and don'ts;
- Administer rewards to community creators in accordance with this Policy and make the Institute eligible for sponsorship under different research funding programs;
- Enhance the Institute's reputation as a leading academic research organization by utilizing intellectual property;
- Inform the inventor of the laws and regulations that apply.
